

Your mom gives you a pack of gum, but you won't let anyone else have any.

You get mad if someone slides on the slide before you.

You are riding your bike and a friend who doesn't have a bike comes over. You won't let him have a turn.

When mom bakes cookies, you have to be the first one to taste them.

There's only 1 cookie left, but you break it in half so your sister can have half.

When it's time for dessert, you don't mind if your sister gets her's first.

You love to get the mail from the mailbox, but sometimes you let your brother get it.

You like to have daddy hold you and your brother on his lap at the same time.

You and your Dad are playing "catch" and your brother comes along. You let him play too.

Your brother would like to wear one of your favorite t-shirts, but you say "no."

You let your cousins read your new book.

You are at the store and you and your sister want a drink from the water fountain. You let her go first.

When your friends come over to play, you sometimes let your little brother play too.

When playing games, you don't mind if someone else goes first.

When you're watching TV, you sit far enough away so everyone can see it.

